A member of the Royal Guards and assistant to Sir Geoffrey, Halston Montil achieved fame as lead investigator into the apocalyptic group know as the Followers of Armageddon, also known as the Zog Cartel. Halston was appointed his position after fiercely defending Trinsic from attacks by Mages and Elementals. Inspiring with his unique Golden Sword, twice Halston lead allies to the Dungeon Shame-to confirm the existance of Sage Winslow's corpse and again to capture the leader of the FoA cult. At this last adventure Halston had to slay the Troll G'thunk in order to take custody of the FoA leader for transport to Yew jail. Afterward, Halston for a time was official spokesperson for Lord British.
